Claims 4, 7-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

Applicant amended claim 4 to include the limitations of "conducting a first drying step for drying the mixture of the rice powder and the water" and "conducting a second drying step for drying the mixture of the rice powder and the water". The steps are not supported by the original disclosure. While the specification discloses two drying steps, the drying is performed on a rice dough after it is steam kneaded, extruding kneaded and stamped out through a mold. The formed rice dough is dried in two separate stages. The drying is not done on the mixture of the rice powder and the water. With respect to claim 12, there is no disclosure of the emulsified sauce having a viscosity of "50 to 800 cp at 60 degree C. There is no disclosure of the temperature in the specification. With respect to claim 10, there is no disclosure of baking the mixture of rice powder and mixture. The specification discloses baking the dough, not the mixture.

Claims 4 and 7-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 4 is vague and indefinite. The steps are confusing because they are not complete. It is not known the end result of the steam-kneading step; what form after the steam-kneading step. The drying steps are confusing because it is not seen how drying is performed on a mixture of rice and water because such mixture is a liquid solution. The step of producing a baked dough is confusing because it is not known how this step is related to the previous steps; the baked dough is produced from what. Also, while the preamble recites a method of manufacturing a soft-baked rice cracker, there is no step of forming the cracker in the body of the claim.

Claim 10 is vague and indefinite. It is not clear what is meant by baking the mixture of rice powder and water. As disclosed in the specification, it is the formed dough that is being baked, not the mixture of rice powder and water.

Claims 4 and 7-12 are free of prior art because applicant's argument is found to be persuasive.

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 4 and 7-12 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
